

FURTHER EDUCATION FORUM

Date
Friday, 29 June 2018

Time
11.00am to 3.00pm

Venue
Evening Standard and Independent,
Northcliffe House, 2 Derry Street, London, W8 5EE

Chaired by Sue Green, journalism lecturer, City of Wolverhampton College

This forum is for heads of journalism, course leaders and funding managers of NCTJ-accredited journalism courses at further education colleges. It provides an opportunity to discuss the challenges and opportunities surrounding the delivery of NCTJ qualifications and accredited courses in the FE environment.

Aims and objectives

Delegates attending the meeting will be encouraged to share ideas and issues about funding and delivery of the NCTJ syllabus at colleges. We will also be discussing the NCTJ's strategy, apprenticeships, progress with online exams, developments to qualifications, awards, and the new approach to accreditation. We would also like your views on safeguarding and training for reporting terror and trauma.

Who should attend?

This forum is designed to focus on matters of concern to heads of journalism or course leaders at FE colleges running NCTJ accredited courses. While delegates are expected to make their own travel arrangements, there is no fee for attending the forum.
